LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

See Lopez's new ad.

The ice-man is now but a memory of the past.

Passing away—the ice-man: Sherman-ized weather is ever his death.

Preaching at the Baptist Church every evening this week commencing at 7:30.

Thermometer at 55 degrees yesterday morning—a glorious fall, my countrymen!

Several communications, received too late for this issue of the paper, will appear next week.

Herren Schreoter, Schaeffer, Fink and Mehrkows—moh einmal: "Zweitthalter den tag und debratschen fleisch!"

The brick-layers are at work building the walls of the new steam laundry now being erected by the Sisters in Arcadia.

Andrews' Circus passed through town southward bound on an evening train Sunday. The outfit filled ten or twelve cars.

Mrs. Jno. A. Dillon and family, who have spent the summer in the Delano homestead in Russellville leave to-day for their home in St. Louis.

James H. Morley, well known in this section as the civil engineer who located the Iron Mountain railroad, died at his home in St. Louis last week.

A camp meeting was held at Logtown during the past week. We are told that the attendance was good and the success all that could be desired.

The St. Louis Conference of the M. E. Church convenes in Salem, Mo., to-day. The appointments will likely be announced the latter part of the week.

County Clerk Fletcher has staked off the ground and commenced building the foundation of a brick residence which he proposes erecting on the site of his old home in Arcadia.

Dr. Patton has completed the foundation for his new home in the eastern part of the city, and is now waiting for the brick, the laying of which, however, will not likely be commenced before next spring.

Ed. P. Tetwiler, formerly a REGISTER attaché, is now employed on the Cape Girardeau News Era. In addition to this he has lately been raised to the exalted position of President of the Cape City Band.

Rev. A. Montgomery has been called to the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church in this city, and will assume his charge at once. Until further notice, services will be held every Sunday morning and evening.

A special meeting of Midian R. A. Chapter, No. 71, will be held in the hall at Ironton Saturday of this week, afternoon and night. Work in all the degrees. Visiting Companions will be cordially welcomed.

The hickory nuts are ready to harvest and the hazel crop will soon be ripe. The yield this year is large and the boys are now daily scouring the woods, therefore, in most instances returning with well-filled sacks and baskets.

The old "Blue Store" is now occupied by Mr. T. H. Coum, who has re-christened the building as the "St. Louis Grocery House." He has filled it with a fine lot of Groceries and Harness and Saddlery. We wish him success.

Noah Johnson, a son of the ice-man, was thrown out of a wagon Tuesday morning and had his wrist thrown out of place. He was taken to a surgeon, who pulled the injured member back in place, and the boy is now doing very well.

Mr. Louis Miller went to St. Louis Monday with the intention of purchasing a machine for making pressed brick. An institution that has been badly needed in the Valley for some years past, and we hope Mr. M. will realize handsomely on his investment.

Mr. Geo. Donald, of Granville, last week presented Midian R. A. Chapter, of this place, with two perfect ashlers bearing the mark of the oldest Chapter member, Mr. B. Shepherd, thereon. Mr. D.'s gift was timely and acceptable, and it was a unanimous lodge that returned hearty thanks therefor.

Parties desiring to attend the St. Louis Exposition during the present month can purchase round-trip tickets at the rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip on the following dates: September 19th, 23d, 26th and 29th. Tickets must be used on day of purchase and return limited to four days.

Bruce and Howard Lindsay departed Sunday for St. Louis, where they enter the Manual Training Department of the Washington University. This is the only institution of the kind in the Mississippi Valley, and we believe these young men are the first of our Valley that have ever been enrolled as students there.

A couple ear-load of Texas ponies were unloaded at the depot in this place Saturday afternoon. The owners are trying to dispose of them at what resident buyers consider—pretty stiff prices. Purchasing an unbroken Texas pony is like dabbling in mineral land. You never can tell how it's going to "pan out."

We call the attention of our readers to an article in this issue headed "Democracy and the Tariff." It is an able production and we commend its careful reading to those who desire to post themselves as to how Democracy has ever viewed that obnoxious and outrageous institution so ironically termed "Protective Tariff."

The Baptist folk are holding a revival in their church in this city which will continue throughout the week. Rev. Shoush, the pastor, is being assisted by Rev. Watson, from the Northern part of the State. Rev. W., is said to be quite a successful revivalist and his meetings generally result in many additions to the church.

The wrangle over the location of the new M. E. parsonage in Arcadia has at last been settled and the structure—a neat and one-and-a-half story cottage—is now being erected on the lot situated immediately south of the church. A site that will in any event be convenient for the pastor, even if not so easy of access as some of the other locations offered.

Iron Mountain Lodge, A. F. & A. M. indulged in a banquet at Workmen's Hall, Graniteville, on Friday evening last. We are informed that the occasion proved a decidedly pleasant one and was universally acknowledged as the event of the season. After the supper the young folk closed the festivities by tripping the "light fantastic" for two or three hours.

Mr. Jno. Blemel sends the REGISTER a quart bottle of fine Kentucky Hand-Made Sour Mash Whiskey, all the way from Louisville, where the genial baker and his family are now enjoying a few weeks' recreation. Johnnie you're a brick, our thanks, hearty and sincere. We'll remember you if times ever become sufficiently flush to allow the poor printer to take a trip and vacation.

A little daughter of Elijah Masterson, who resides in Arcadia, was bitten by a rattlesnake last Saturday morning. A physician was immediately summoned and he found the child in a rather precarious condition and rapidly growing worse, with but little hope for recovery. However, a change for the better was noticeable Sunday evening and, at this writing, the little one is in a fair way to a complete and early cure.

The Baptists had a fine revival meeting near Logtown, by Mrs. Dorcas Hayward. A convenient place of worship was erected, several ministers secured, headed by Father Woods, and everything successfully conducted until eleven were converted and twenty-one joined the church. Some regret was caused by a party of hunters chasing a fox in the vicinity and disturbing the meeting by their noise on Friday night.

Mr. James C. Smith, of the Calcedonia Stock Farm, carried off most of the important honors at the Farmington Fair last week. His fine trotting stallion, "Clay Cuyler," Reg. No. 1792, swept everything before him and won a half-dozen first premiums. His other five horses came away carrying from one to three ribbons apiece. Mr. S. is elated, and well he may be, as his horses are fast attaining records and reputations heretofore unknown in this section.

Mr. E. W. Graves is sinking a 100 foot shaft on his lead prospect near Des Arc. A depth of sixty-five feet has been reached and, we understand, the indications are very promising indeed. The general predictions is that before the hundred feet limit has expired a valuable and paying vein of lead will be encountered. We hope so and trust Mr. G. will realize a fortune on his venture. His pluck and energy entitle him to no less.

H. M. Collins took his Big Bay Horse and Kentucky Colt over to the Farmington Fair last week and succeeded in securing premiums on both animals. The first named carried off the ribbons as a gelding, general appearance, and the roan color. The colt won third premium in a running race and Hartman maintains that if his rider hadn't fallen off on the home stretch he would have certainly captured the blue ribbon. Dr. Hull's cream colored horse was awarded first premium as a saddle.

The following taken from an eastern journal will be of interest to our doctors: "The latest development of the automatic machine is a Dr. Currell, in Holland. It is a wooden figure of a man, with compartments all over it, labeled with the names of various ailments. If you have pain find its corresponding location on the figure, drop a coin into the slot and the proper pill or powder will come out." We understand that one of these machines will be placed on one of the principal street corners of our town by one of our enterprising citizens sometime in the near future.

Rev. Dr. Schuyler, who, with his family, spent the summer in the Valley, returned Tuesday to his home and work in St. Louis. During his three months' residence in our midst Dr. S. kindly favored the attendants of St. Paul's Church, here, with weekly services, and 'tis to make some feeble acknowledgment for the great benefits his congregations have received that we are called on to write this notice. Dr. Schuyler is one of the ablest divines of St. Louis, and it may be surmised the pleasure and profit accruing from his voluntary services to the little congregation here. By reason thereof, the summer of 1889 will ever remain a happy remembrance. Wherever he goes, he carries with him good wishes and prayers for continued health and happiness for himself and those dear to him.

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt from Secretary of State Lesueur of a copy of the "Official Manual of Missouri for 1889-90." It is a handsome printed volume of 237 pages, with six pages of double-column index. The book is subdivided into elections, United States and State officials, political and historical miscellaneous and sketches of civil officers. It contains three colored maps, showing the congressional, senatorial and judicial divisions of the State, and is further adorned with a frontispiece of the State Capitol. Fifty pages are devoted exclusively to county officers, giving their names, offices, politics, county and county seat in tabular form, each county being complete in its own separate table. The executive officers of all the States are set forth at length, together with the Congress of the United States. The list of registered pharmacists of Missouri and corporations organized during the past two years are published, and a mass of political information which will prove of great value to all Missourians. Three pages of tabulated matter are devoted to St. Louis. Altogether the book is the finest public document ever issued from the State capital.

Steak of Pilot Knob, who runs a saloon in that town, twenty-four hours in a day, was in town Thursday, looking after a place to start a tiger. We don't need him if this is his business. If tigers are to be kept we have plenty of men to keep them, and are favor of the thing being caged by home men. Will some enterprising home man not turn loose his tiger. Throw open the doors, boys, and let the animal out. We are not in favor of steffens, or steffens, but home business. The Madison county article is bad enough but not to compare with what they keep in our neighboring county. If the next grand jury does not charge the tiger in his lair, and kill the beast, we want three more started by home people and run till every decent person in the county has enough tiger oil. The people seem to be "awful dry" and are intent on squandering their hard cash on the whiskey. The whiskey men claim if the drug stores had not dealt so extensively in whiskey they would still be willing to abide by the law, but claim any party through most any pretense may obtain a permit from a point to five feet which if true is bad indeed, and to some extent, justifies their idea of right and wrong in the matter.—Fredericktown Standard.

The Man About Town.

The Man About Town tells us that he often sees, hears and learns of things that he believes would be of interest to our readers, and he asks for a hearing. As he agrees to assume all responsibility and defend all live suits, according from whom he may have said, we've agreed to give him space for his utterances, the public kindly bearing in mind that whatever appears under this head is his work and we have nothing to do therewith. With this short explanation we introduce

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN.

It is a time-honored custom, when a new recruit drifts into the stormy sea of journalism, that he furnish a salutatory full of promises, hopes and fears, but we, having no promises to make, our hopes having all been realized, and our fears proven groundless, will have to be excused from following the usual rule of action and, in lieu thereof, will make our bow, in honor of our friends, and push forward in our mission to reform the world.

The Man About Town is a prohibitionist and believes that pure, cold water is nectar for the gods, but business, or the desire for a glass of lemonade, sometimes calls him into a saloon. A few evenings since, while seated in a corner of one of these rendezvous of the G. A. R. quietly sipping our elixir and ice, we overheard a conversation between a couple of the comrades. They both seemed to have imbued freely and were talking in a rather reckless and easy manner, apparently indifferent as to who heard them. The subject of conversation was Corporal Tanner's removal by President Harrison as Commissioner of Pensions. "Never mind," said one, "we'll show Ben. Harrison as Gen. Noble about this when voting time comes around. Noble never reads anything but the — St. Louis Republic. Democratic paper. This is all the Democrats work. Wait till next year. We're 610,893 strong. We'll send one delegate from every spot in the country to attend the next National Encampment, and make Tanner Commander-in-Chief. It's a bigger man than Harrison." Then followed a tirade of abuse and strong English against the Democratic party. The comrades seemed to blame the Democrats more for the Corporal's removal than they did President Harrison. On first thought this occurred to us as somewhat peculiar, but, after a little consideration, we came to the conclusion that the old veteran was correct, and it's highly probable that all the good the country derives from the present administration will be owing to the watch-guard among the Democrats. About this time a third comrade appeared, invited his brethren up to the bar, called for three beers, which the trio soon completed and started to lodge, all swearing vengeance for the injury done their beloved Tanner. We don't blame them for kicking over the discharge of the only man connected with the present administration who has had the honesty of purpose to openly and above-board practice what he g.o.p. promises and preaches.

A few days since, while coming from St. Louis on the evening train, our attention was drawn toward a couple of men, who had boarded the coach at Victoria, by their frequent use of the words "Iron County." Naturally curious, and, easing our conscience by concluding they would hardly be talking "secret" of such a subject, we moved to a seat more adjacent to the individuals in question, for the purpose of learning, if possible, what they were saying about our little kingdom. They spoke not in an undertone, and our change of position had not been made in vain. We soon gathered from their talk that the two gentlemen were members of the late grand jury in Jefferson county, and they were discussing a feature of the criminal code that had been presented to them by Judge Thomas when he delivered his charge. It seems that the Judge is endeavoring to ascertain whether it is cheaper to prosecute misdemeanors by indictment or by information before a justice of the peace. To this end, he had written to all of the county clerks in his circuit with the view of learning the amount of costs paid by the county courts each year in misdemeanor cases before the justices. Having, ourselves, devoted a little time to the study of this question, we here joined the conversation in order to ascertain what the Judge had said on the subject. One of the gentlemen had gone to the trouble to copy the figures and part of the remarks as the short-hand reporter had taken them down. Believing they will be of interest we reproduce a part thereof:

"Now Reynolds county has a population of about thirty thousand; Iron county, I suppose, has a population of about nine thousand; Washington county probably has a population of twelve or fifteen thousand, and I reckon Jefferson County now has a population of twenty-five or thirty thousand. In Iron county, the costs paid out for the year ending February, '89, was $1996, that is paid by the county in one year. In Reynolds county they paid out $285. In Washington county they paid out $180, and in Jefferson County $800; we have three terms a year, you know, in Jefferson county. Now does it not strike you as a little remarkable that there would be that difference in the criminal costs in those four counties, Reynolds county being $35, for the last year, Iron county $1996, Washington county $180, and Jefferson County $800? Well, I believe for the last year it was $800; I think for the former year it was $800."

"Now, in Iron county, the way they have proceeded there for the last five years has been by information by the prosecuting attorney before a justice of the peace, and you see the result."

In a recent talk with Prof. Potter, of the Washington University, in regard to our Valley, its advantages and possibilities as a summer resort, he took occasion to say: "I can not understand why some corporation has not interested itself in this valley. There are several localities in this valley where a lake could be built and a body of water equal in dimensions to that of the dam at Iron Mountain secured at an outlay of a few thousand dollars. Such an improvement and a hotel properly conducted to accommodate them would bring a thousand St. Louisians to this vicinity every summer."

is the day ever coming when our monied men will awaken to the fact that a real bonanza is sure to follow a judicious investment right here in our midst?

Obituary.

Died, very unexpectedly, Friday morning, Mrs. Wm. Sandman. She leaves an infant babe and three other children to mourn her loss. She was buried at Fredericktown Sunday. Alas, how uncertain is life. Only a few hours before she died she was doing well. May God help her bereaved husband and children.

A Card of Thanks.

Ed. Register—I deem it my duty, as well as my pleasure, to express publicly my obligation and my gratitude to the kind friends and neighbors who have again, as on former occasions, so generously and so nobly remembered us and cared for us. We cannot reward them, but our hope and our prayer is that they may be Divinely rewarded in this life, and also "recompensed at the resurrection of the Just." The Ladies have been unremitting in the care of my wife. We are also sincerely thankful for the well chosen and proper words in which the Editor referred to us.

Very truly,
L. PULLIAM.

Pilot Knob Items.

A very refreshing rain fell on Sunday, much to the good of everybody and everything.

Mr. Jno. S. Norman, who had been long expected, made his appearance in the Knob Saturday greeting his numerous friends with shake and a smile.

Mr. Joe Stafford and wife returned Friday from a visit to his father near Steeleville. Mr. S. drove through the country and says crops of all kinds are good.

Charlie Schmitter has been on the sick list a day or two.

Jno. W. Jaquith left Monday for St. Louis to re-enter the Manual Training School. John has been dabbling in real estate lately, having made a purchase in Colorado.

Dr. Strong attended the Masonic banquet at Graniteville Friday night.

Mr. Fred. Elrecht has received the lumber and is pushing the work of building his new shops. Mr. Valentine Effinger is superintending the job, and doing some of the work too. Val. holds the hatchet in both hands as to avoid a mangled finger.

Mr. Wm. Wooleen lost a valuable mule Wednesday evening. The mule made strenuous objections to being sold, but it was a case of "do or die," so he was roped and thrown to the ground. In his struggles he struck his head so violently against the earth as to fracture his skull, dying in an hour or two, in great agony.

From Goodland.

Ed. Register—Since my last a trip was made to Ironton. I started from home at 5 o'clock A. M. The morning was clear and lovely; the atmosphere cool, bracing and exhilarating. As I rode along the road, nature appeared to have just awakened from its gentle slumber. The tall oaks, the monarch of the forest, towering high, stretched their broad leafy surface to the gentle breeze; the sun was just peeping over the eastern horizon; the song of the bird could be distinctly heard; and in fact, every thing appeared to be alive and to rejoice in the splendor of the morning. Reaching Edge Hill at 6:15 A. M., I observed that the energetic merchant at that place, Mr. W. Latham, was up and getting his goods in proper shape for another day's sale. On reaching the water-shed between Mr. Oesch's and the Padfield hollow, I was forcibly reminded of the hill which that brave hero, Gen. Wolfe, ascended, with his little band of men, to the "Plains of Abraham," and achieved one of the grandest victories of the French and Indian war, the battle of Quebec. I reached Warren's Store at 9 o'clock, and found business about as usual. Winding my way up the Imboden I soon found that my progress was very much impeded owing to the bad condition of the road. The road up that creek is absolutely impassable; that is with any degree of progress and satisfaction. The road-master of that section is not to be censured for the freshet in June did the work. At 1:15 o'clock, P. M., I arrived at Ironton. That being the day of the last examination of teachers, I found, upon inquiry, that the teachers were having a pretty hard time; that about 10 per cent. of the applicants this year had failed. It has been stated that the object of the re-vised-school law is to get rid of the country-bred teachers; those who are not Normal graduates, made to order. That is not the case. From what I can see and hear I am forced to believe that many of the "Professors," who never did a day's work on the farm, had as hard time to get through on a third-grade certificate as did any of the "country-bred" teachers. The law here, as in California, should prohibit any teacher from getting $75 or $85 per month on a third-grade certificate. When it comes to an examination, Prof. J. B. Scott is not a respecter of persons. With him brains count, not duodecim. Being detained in Ironton but an hour or so, the line of march was taken up for Middlebrook, where I found a home for the night in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliker. Leaving Middlebrook next day at 7:30 o'clock, A. M., I reached home at 3:45, P. M. While on the trip I observed many things that would not be pertinent to repeat.

Since I came home I have been informed that Messrs. Keeler & Lake, Chicago, Ill., who own 10,000 acres of land in townships 34 and 35, range 1 and 2 West, are having the land prospected for iron and lead; that they have found several deposits of iron and some lead, and that the indications for lead are very good. Rev. J. R. Adams is superintending the work. Should the project develop, valuable "minerals" I shall try to visit the area and "write up" the matter.

The school in the Goodland District still continues to prosper. Mr. D. R. Adams, who is studying book-keeping, appears to have a predilection for that study.

J. N. Eaton drives the nearest rig out. He is travelling for the Historical Publishing Company, I am informed.

On the morning of the 8th inst. Mr. Bunchhausen, of near pine Grove, got his house, with nearly all of the household effects burnt.

September 10, 1889.

Personal.

Mrs. Hurlbut and daughter, Miss Maud, leave for St. Louis to-day.

Mrs. Dr. Patton and son will visit St. Louis relatives this week.

Miss May Tong has returned from St. Louis.

Mrs. J. W. Worsnop, De Soto, visited Ironton relatives the week last.

St. Louisians to this vicinity every summer."

Rob't West, Des Arc, is now located in Ironton with W. T. Gay & Co.

Mrs. Chas. T. Sykes and Mrs. S. W. Andrews, with their children, left Monday for Ft. Scott, Kansas, on a several weeks' visit.

Farm for Sale.

The Southeast Sunday School Convention.

The Southeast Missouri Baptist Sunday School Convention meets with the church at Poplar Bluff Thursday night, 26th inst., continuing three days. The programme will embrace every feature of the Sunday school work. Well chosen speakers will open the discussions. Every one entitled to the floor will have an opportunity to express himself in reference to the various questions, therefore let each bring a well prepared speech touching some feature of the work. We ask every Baptist Church and Sunday School to send delegates bearing Sunday School statistics, and a contribution for Sunday school extension work. Churches desiring next meeting will please instruct delegates to invite. Every Baptist pastor in Southeast Missouri is made a member by the Convention. Then rally, Brother Pastors, and let us enlarge this work until there is not a Baptist church in Southeast Missouri without a Baptist Sunday School. Rev. J. Hickman, of St. Louis, is appointed to preach the Introductory Thursday night. All expecting to attend are requested to send their names to Rev. J. W. Hiett, Poplar Bluff, Mo. N. O. Sowers, Moderator.

Piedmont, Mo.

Notice to Debtors!

All persons knowing themselves indebted to the undersigned are hereby notified to come forward and settle without delay. All accounts remaining unpaid by October 1st will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection with instructions to institute proceedings in every case without exception. Our recent loss by fire makes this move imperative and it will be followed to the letter without fear, favor or affection.

Respectfully,
Pilot Knob, Mo., September 24, 1889.
